Of Interest to Every Woman

When rightly treated, the life of a good hot-water bag may be prolonged. Procure a small funnel, as water should not be allowed to remain around the screw top and washers. Fill the bottle with cold water, pour it out; fill with luke-warm water, allow to remain for fifteen minutes; pour it out; fill with water, let that remain for fifteen minutes and throw this away. Have a Finnnel Bag.

Now fill it three-quarters full with very hot water, but not boiling. Then turn the neck over to get the air out; then screw the stopper in; turn the bag upside down to be sure it does not "ooze." Have an outling flannel bag ready; put the bottle in, tie the tape

OLD-FASHIONED DYEING

Try it and Your Living Will Be the

How is it that the work of our grandmothers has lasted so well; that the color is still fresh, delicate and undimmed, the fiber of the thread still firm and strong? It is mostly a question of dye.

Nowadays we use the commercial mineral dyes which give it is true as

More Stories.

My Dear Girls and Boys,—Now that we have started off with such a flourish, I want you to keep up your daily column with all the charm and interest that has made the success of your Sunday page, so right away I am wanting more stories. You remember last year I had to send out a special call to our poets, and now this summer we are asking where are our tellers of tales. There never was a boy or girl in this whole big round world that didn't dearly love stories of some sort or another. We all like them. You want somebody to tell them to you when you are getting ready for bed at night, and you like to read them in the snuggest place in the house on rainy days, so make up some nice ones for each other. Bennie Willams can write about Indians and battles, because he dearly loves them, and the Chadwicks can write perfectly fascinating stories about anything, and all of the rest of you can write best about what you care the most for so I am expecting lovely stories before I turn ground twice. mineral dyes which give, it is true, an absolute uniformity of shade, but which eat into the goods, after a little while rot them utterly and fail entirely to produce the exquisite col-gathered what she wanted and coming ing home made her own dyes out of the abundance of material which she found at her hand. It was not a very arduous task and one which would well repay the women of to-day.

Whatever has color will give color, not perhaps the color which you would expect, but certaintly some color, and the experimenting is a joy untold. If you gather the flowers of the goldenrod, for instance, and bail them down in water, would you not naturally suppose the dye would be golden yellow?

But it is not. It will be a delicious kind of pastel brown, with a very, very faint undertone of gold.

Should you gather the nettle and press out the juice, diluting it according to the depth of colors you want, a pale Nile green will be the result. All through the summer we can find the St. John's Wort, or Tutsan as it is some times called from its great medical power, and from it we can get no less than two colors—red, if we dissolve the young green tops in equal parts of alcohol and water; yellow, if we use alum. But, perhaps, the leaf that gives the most exquisite dye is the lily of the valley. You need only to boil it to get a cool, fresh green like its own color when you hold up the leaf and look at the light through it.

The new teacher was expected Friday. On Wednesday Karl found himself staring at the self sauntering down to the little station because he had an appointment to meet Arthur Jones there. Too! too! sounded the bell of the train. With a jerk it stopped in front of the station because he had an appointment to meet Arthur Jones there. Too! too! sounded the bell of the train. The yellow iris make a good black; the berries of the elder, well diluted, a dull purple; the green fruit of the walnut tree a splendid brown, and so on through the entire list of the vegetable. table world. There is hardly a single plant from which you cannot get some color by boiling, expressing the juice or dissolving in alcohol or alum.

Now when all the woods and fields and vacant lots are full of blossom it would be a good thing to experiment and see what new and artistic effects you can get by dyeing your rafila for basketry, or white rags for the hooked or braided rugs. The venture will bring you the thrill of exploration, and nine times out of ten the joy of achievement, to say nothing of the improved appearance of your wrok and its increased longevity.

The modern, commercial dyeing may be quicker and more certain, but the

I certainly do appreciate your kind and successful efforts to give us what we have been clamoring after for so long, and I am quite sure all the members do. And I just know at this very moment there are many pens a scribbling away, writing you little messages of thanks, and telling you how happy every one le. I wish to thank Miss Marjorle Williams and Samuel Garthright for their kind words of praise regarding my pleture that was published several weeks ago. To his sister's question he replied, "How do I like the idea of a new teacher, Norma? They are all the same," he grumbled. "I heard Mrs. Jones tell her Arthur that this new teacher was an old maid who always liked to 'pick on' the dummest pupils in the class."

"Why, Karl!" exclaimed Norma, "surely you don't believe all gossips say?" "I don't carc, Norma, I bet she will be just like Miss Brown. Nobody likes her, do they."

No, no one did not like Miss Nora Brown. She was very disagreeable to nearly all of her pupils except two of three, termed "pets."

When the principal told Miss Brown's pupils that that worthy lady was unable to teach any longer, all the children, excepting Karl Van Dorn, felt a secret pleasure (although they did not show it before the principal of the school).

day. Please forward my prize and medal if they have not been forwarded, and if it has been forwarded please look into the matter and see what is the trouble. My name was on the prize list in the issue of May 27, and as I have not received it I wish to know the trouble. I am sending in the anding of the story, "Miss Byrd's Nature Class," and another story. I hope to see them both in print as seen as possible. I must close now, as I must write those stories. Wishing good luck to the editor and members, I am. 400 Main Street, Fredericksburg, Va.

Glad You alke It.

Dear Editor.—I have received my prize, and appreciated it so much, and many thanks for it. I have read some, but not much. I like it fine. My school closed the first day of this month. I am going to send some drawings, which I hope will escape the wastebasket. I send a heading, which I hope will be printed. This is the first one. I remain. Your member.

FALL TO DEATH BENEATH WHEELS OF AUTOMOBILE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Blacksburg, Va., June 16.—Garrett Rogers, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Rogers, living near Placksburg, was almost instantly killed by an automobile driven by Mr. Hardiman, of Pearisburg, Va., near the entrance to the college grounds to-day. Crowds were leaving the campus after the sham battle, and witnesses to the accident agree that the machine was moving slowly, and that the boy turned directly in its way, falling under the wheels. He was hurried to the college hospital, where every attention was given, but he only lived a few minutes. Mr. Hardiman gave bond for his appearance in court here later, and left for his home, in Pearisburg, soon after the accident.

UNITED STATES TROOPS INFLUENCED ELECTION

In Mearagua for this Purpose Made by Senator Smith.

Washington, June 16 .- Charges that the United States kept its marines in Nicaragua to influence the recent presitential election, and that the State Department has been acting in the interest of American bankers, was contained in a resolution introduced today by Senator Smith, of Michigan, The resolution was referred to the Sen-and Seligman & Co., American bankers interested in Nicaraguan financing.

"The sole beneficiaries of the fraud upon a friendly republic," says the resolution, "were the Brown Brothers, Seligman & Co. and Speyer & Co. and their allies."

The resolution also charges that the Nicaraguan National Railway was sold much below its value to the bankers, and that the last election in Nicaragua was "intentionally influenced" by the presence of the United States troops, in violation of the treaty with Nicaragua Looked Like Small Boils. Itching and Burning Intense. Could Not Sleep Boils Pained So. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

1215 D St., S. W., Washington, D. C .-About three years ago I began to have boils on the back of my neck and body and then my face began to break out with large red blotches and pimples. You could not put a pin point anywhere on my face and arms that there was not a pimple. The pimples looked something like small boils. They festered and came to a head. The itching and burning were so intense I ed and made sores. I could not eleep the boils pained me so.

"I tried different remedies but they did me no good. Finally my face was so bad I was ashamed to go out. I got so thin that my friends all called me "Bones." I suf-fered this way for a year. Finally my mother heard of Cuticura Scap and Cintment and at once got them. I used the Cuticura Ointment night and morning and I would wash with the Cuticura Soap twice a day. In two weeks they told me I was looking better. I was completely cured in four months." (Signed) Irwin Deits, June 16, '13.

The itching, burning, suffering and loss of sleep of eczemas, rashes, and irritations of the skin and scalp are at once relieved and permanent skin health restored in most cases by warm baths with Cuticura Soap followed by gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment when all else fails. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Outicura Ointment (50c.) are sold everywhere. A single set is often Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Outleurs, Dept. T. Boston."
